

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN MUSIC ON SUNDAY

Music of the highest excellence rendered by some of the best talent in the state of Utah will be the chief attraction for the Sunday night service in First Presbyterian church. The artist from out of the city will include Wildemar A. Call, a recent pupil of Oscar Saenger of New York. Miss Louise Walton and Alton E. Cardwell of Salt Lake City. Miss Walton possesses a dramatic soprano voice and has been spoken of as the most promising young musicians in the state. Mr. Cardwell is a lyric tenor singer, and Mr. Call, who sings low baritone, has been a favorite in the oratorio work in Salt Lake during the last season. Of his work in the recent rendition of the oratorio "Redemption," the Deseret News says: "Mr. Call had the heaviest of the solo parts. His voice is strong and well suited to recitative work, and he sings with great dramatic power."

The male quartette of the Presbyterian church will be heard in two of their best numbers.
